Today

Good Citizen; Good Son.
Thankful! VERY.
To Kill Gorillas.
Giannini Methods.

By ARTHUR BRISSANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

S. DAVIES WARFIELD, head of the Seaboard Air Line, an admirable worker for his country, was buried yesterday in Baltimore.

His life of energetic work and building earned the respect and gratitude of his fellow citizens. And they learn with admiration the use to which he has left his fortune, of several millions.

The money will be used to found a home for dependent aged women, in memory of Mr. Warfield's mother, who died many years ago.

A proclamation by the President fixes November 24 as Thanksgiving Day and mentions some things for which we should be thankful, such as "greater knowledge of the higher values of life" and "advancement in our physical well-being."

It may also be mentioned that we are still OUT of the League of Nations, prosperity continues, high wages HAVEN'T gone down, while the cost of living HAS gone down.

We may well praise the Lord, for we are fearfully and wonderfully fortunate.

Every prospect pleases. Foreigners buy from us, although our money is high in value.

In September we exported 33,743,000 bushels of wheat, 10,048,000 bushels more than in September, 1926. We got, this year, $13,955,000 more than for last year's September wheat exports.

We should be grateful for our blessings.

Miss Alice O'Brien, with a rich father, able to do as she pleases, wants "to hear African drums vibrating through the tropical night along the shores of the Congo," and to see "the weird ceremonies of an African witch doctor."

Most interesting, the young girl thinks she is going to kill gorillas.

That a young human girl should want to kill gorillas is not unusual, but we should shudder if we heard that a young gorilla girl was coming north to kill human girls.

Miss O'Brien, of course, will not really kill any gorilla. Looking into the dark, strange face, she could not shoot. She will visit King Musungu, last of many African potentates, seven feet two inches tall, rich, handsome, with twenty wives—not many, in that climate.

The powerful Bank of Italy hands to its stockholders a dividend of 300,000 shares; 250,000 other shares will be offered to stockholders at $180 a share and the Bancitalia Corporation will buy 250,000 shares at the same price. The Giannini Brothers, with their 165 different branch banks in California, buying banks rapidly throughout the country, are teaching old fashioned finance some new methods.

FOUR UNHURT IN AUTO CRASH

Mexicans' Touring Car Goes Over Lisbon Street Embankment.

Mr. and Mrs. Indalecio L. Ruiz and their three-year-old son and another man whose name was not learned, said to be Mexicans, of near Leroy, Ind., had narrow escapes from serious injury when their Ford touring car left the road and plunged over the hillside while descending the Pleasant Heights hill about 8 o'clock last night. The child sustained a minor laceration on the head.

The party was enroute to Pittsburgh where the men planned to secure employment. Ruiz, who was at the wheel of the machine, claims that the brakes on the car refused to hold as he started to descend the steep Pleasant Heights grade. At a point just below the St. Aloysius Catholic cemetery he steered the machine through an opening in guard fence, plunging over the hillside.

After a 100-foot drop during which the automobile remained upright it came to a stop against a tree. The four passengers were still in their seats when the car was halted.

McElravy Brother's wrecker pulled the machine to the road while the four tourists went to the city hall where they spent the night. The car was only slightly damaged and this morning the tourists continued on their way to Pittsburgh.

Ford sedan, belonging to A. C. Lange, machinist, 1212 Avondale street, ran away on St. Clair avenue early yesterday afternoon, demolishing a rear wheel when Lange steered it into an embankment near Youngs alley. The machine was taken to the McElravy Brothers garage. Lange was not hurt.

42-YEAR-OLD PROGRAM OF TRI-STATE REUNION OF WAR VETERANS RECALLS DAY SANDWICHES SOLD AT ONE CENT EACH IN EAST LIVERPOOL

Ham sandwiches, a 10-cent article in most restaurants today, went begging for customers when they were offered for one cent each in East Liverpool on August 14, 1885, it was recalled today when Josiah T. Herbert, real estate broker, turned over to the Historical society a program of the "Tri-State Reunion of Veterans of the Civil War."

The time-worn pamphlet, still in an excellent state of preservation, was found among the belongings of Herbert's mother, Mrs. R. L. Herbert, when she moved from Highland colony to Seventh street.

The program, valued as a relic, will be displayed in the Historical society's collection on the second floor of the Carnegie public library.

Local restaurant keepers, anticipating a large influx of visitors from eastern Ohio, western Pennsylvania and West Virginia laid in large stocks of sandwiches and other refreshments for the reunion. But decreased attendance, combined with a free dinner for the war veterans, forced wholesale slashing of prices on the part of the concessionaires. As a result sandwiches were sold at the customer's price.

Of the many committee members appointed to assist in the arrangements for the reunion, but two are living today. They are Noah Frederick and Charles Shenkel, the latter a brother of the late Jacob Shenkel, who died this year.

Among the "old timers" whose names appear on the program as committee members are Col. H. R. Hill, father of Attorney Walter B. and Captain William M. Hill; ex-Postmaster W. H. Surles; Col. W. H. Vodrey, father of Attorney W. H. Vodrey; D. H. Jessop, mail carrier for many years; W. B. McCord, newspaper editor; Homer Laughlin, founder of the Homer Laughlin China company; B. C. Simms, pottery manufacturer who for years was connected with the C. C. Thompson company; William Brunt, H. H. Surles, Jeff Kerr, Jacob Shenkel, Thomas Lloyd, Robert Hall, S. A. Gettys, R. Thomas, William Cartwright, F. G. Croxall and others.

The program for the day opened with an artillery salute by 13 guns at sunrise, followed by reveille by a drum and bugle corps. The grand parade took place at 11:30 o'clock. General J. S. Kountz, ex-grand commander, Department Commander R. B. Brown of the G. A. R. and other notables occupied the reviewing stand.

Dinner was served in the "Jumbo" skating rink, Fourth street, at 1 o'clock, after which an entertainment was given in a skating rink located near the corner of East Fifth street and Cherry alley. President William McKinley, who then held the rank of major, was the speaker.

Music was rendered by Haynes band.

The entertainment was followed by a sham battle on Thompson's hill. An artillery salute was fired at sundown.

Company and regimental meetings were held in the early part of the evening after which there was a grand campfire in the Fifth Street skating rink, in which reminiscences, instrumental music and old army songs by the veterans were featured.

As We Grow Older
Proper Kidney Action Is More Than Ever Important

AS we grow older, there is apt to be a gradual slowing up of bodily functions. The kidneys are the blood filters. If their action becomes sluggish they do not thoroughly cleanse the blood of poisonous wastes. This tends to make one tired and aching, with often nagging backache, drowsy headaches and dizziness. A common symptom of imperfect kidney action is scanty or burning excretions.

Elderly people recommend Doan's Pills. This tested diuretic is endorsed the country over. Ask your neighbor!

One More Week For Absentee Voting

Ohio electors, who expect to be absent from their home precincts on Tuesday, November 8, when municipal, township and judicial officers and board of education members will be chosen and judgment passed upon two state proposals as well as city and school district tax levies and bond issues, shall have no excuse if they disfranchise themselves.

Under a law enacted in 1917, primarily to permit men in the military and naval services to exercise their right of suffrage, voters may apply to their home election board within a 30 day period preceding the election for ballots. These ballots must be marked in the presence of an election board official or notary public at the temporary place of abode of the applicant.

The Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections today warned that the period for absentee voting expires on Saturday, November 5, one week from today.

If you expect to be unable to make a personal visit to the voting booth on election day because of absence from your precinct, apply to the election chieftains for ballots. The necessary supplies will be mailed to your address.

Presidential Rebuke For Senator

When President Coolidge issued his now famous "I do not choose" statement there was much speculation as to just what he meant. His silence in the face of a barrage of queries, various interpretations by party leaders and comment from every section of the country served merely to confuse the general public. The first gasp of amazement over the unexpected announcement brought with it an almost universal conclusion that the president meant only to erase himself from the picture as an avowed candidate to succeed himself in the White House; that he would be willing to accept the nomination if it were thrust upon him by unanimous vote of the Republican national convention. Viewed later in the light of Mr. Coolidge's inclination to "speak his mind" only when he had something to say, and then in the most concise language, there came a growing conviction that he meant exactly what he had said, and that he did not intend to mince words in amplifying that statement.

There were many, however, who were not convinced, but none of them was so persistent in attempts to keep the president in hot water as was Senator Fess. For weeks the Ohio senator has been proclaiming, in effect, that Mr. Coolidge is a candidate for re-nomination to the extent that he will accept if drafted, and that it is the duty and privilege of all Republicans to aid and abet in the drafting process. He became so persistent that it was apparent he was thinking more about his own political future than the immediate future of Mr. Coolidge. This more or less general impression is borne out by Senator Fess' refusal to accept the president at his word even after Mr. Coolidge's caustic rebuke of the senator.

What a different picture Senator Willis presents to his constituents and to the country at large! The senior Ohio senator spent an hour with the president, then declared that if the president's "I do not choose" statement needed any amplification, it has been abundantly supplied by Coolidge's rebuke of Senator Fess. Satisfied in his own mind that President Coolidge has removed himself permanently from consideration as a candidate, Senator Willis is proceeding along more constructive and instructive lines by interesting himself in the question of party program and platform, rather than in candidacies. As Senator Willis has said, there are plenty of outstanding Republicans who can defeat any candidate the Democrats may place in nomination. Consideration of legislative achievement in the coming session of congress is more in keeping with a senator's duties at the present time, than any attempt to gain political prestige by forcing a personal issue in spite of a presidential rebuke.

A Thousand Bank Accounts

Far from putting all his eggs into one basket, Paul Monroe of Duluth has put his in so many different places that the marvel is he can remember where every nest egg is.

When he was 20 years old, just four years ago, this young man conceived the bright idea of starting 1,000 different bank accounts in as many American cities. The other day he opened account number 700 in Racine, Wis. He has washed dishes in restaurants, pitched hay, heaved coal, dug ditches and done housework. When he gets an extra dollar he goes to the nearest bank, opens his savings account, pockets the bank book and departs for another community. In this strange pursuit he has traveled through 31 states. His transportation costs little because he is able to get so many free rides with generous motorists. He carries a suitcase—probably filled with bank books.

When he gets his thousand one-dollar accounts, he plans to settle down and go to work in earnest. Then he will keep all the accounts active by mailing additional money to the banks as fast as he earns and can save it. Eventually he expects to have enough capital to go into some sort of business for himself.

It is a novel idea, all right, but hardly a wise one for general adoption. He might get his first $1,000 saved a little sooner and that useful capital acquired just as safely if he stayed in one place long enough to make good in any single job, get promoted and have his wages increased. Under his system he is forever starting at the bottom of the ladder.

Tomboy Taylor—

By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Broadway, pendently of regular store detectives has a well-known type known as "a and never prosecutes. It is the task fixer." He will be found usually around the chop houses at 4 o'clock in the afternoon having breakfast. He knows all the wise secrets of the street and can fix anything. He is flip with cashier and newstand girls who have to suffer his insolence.

His information is always "inside." His jowls are shaven to a steel blue, his complexion putty and his firm teeth clench the cigar he never removes while talking. The distinct scent of barber's lotion clings to him and his handkerchiefs are the gaudiest.

Women seem to play a small part in his life, although occasionally he dines with some peroxide pouter at whom he seems to be perpetually sneering. And she appears to love it. His talk is brittle, mysterious and provocative. His slang is the vaudeville monologist's latest.

He knows all the "tip off" men who spread information about the nightly dice games. He can tell you the history of every chorus girl in the Follies. He can give you the lowdown on fixed fights. He knows salaries of all performers. Indeed he knows everybody and everything.

What is more, you know he is bluffing, but he is just the same quite convincing. His familiarity with notables is amazing. F. Ziegfeld is Flo, the Shuberts are Lee and Jake, Flo, Basco is Dave, and Mayor Walker, of course, is Jimmy. You get the idea these and others let him in on the Big Staff.

Nobody knows exactly how he makes a living. And Broadway never asks. He is able to wear the latest in coat lapels, the most glittering of wrist watches, the snappiest shirts and gaudiest ties. Frequently you see him counting rolls of bills in a rather conspicuous manner.

He has innumerable sides for every occasion—savvy, skepticism and loquaciousness. At noontime you may see him in the grill of the Astor with the motion picture magnates and at midnight he will have a choice ring-side seat in a supper club. He is the most profound of all Broadway enigmas.

A gentleman has become a millionaire as the result of establishing an unobtrusive espionage system among employees and customers in large department stores of New York and other large cities. He works inside.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Women Study Campaign Expenditures

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 29.—Primary to the campaign of 1928 the National League of Women Voters has initiated a movement that it is hoped, will result in informing women throughout the country as to the use of money in primaries and in elections as to present national and state corrupt practices laws, and as to changes that should be made in those laws in order to make them more effective.

The plan is to have state and local leagues form groups to take up the study of corrupt practices legislation, using an outline or program that has been prepared for the National League by Helen M. Rocca, secretary of political education.

Specific enactments either by national or state legislative bodies are not recommended, but it is said that more effective regulation of campaign funds is especially needed in three ways: The regulation of the sources and amounts of campaign contributions; the regulation of the size of campaign expenditures; and the regulation of the purposes for which money may be spent in elections.

"Of the three the first and third are most important," says the league's statement, "since large sums of money may now be spent in campaigns in perfect legitimate ways. In fact, election campaigns on any but a very small scale are inevitably expensive."

The statement quotes James K. Pollock, Jr., author of Party Campaign Funds, to the effect that public attention should be directed to the source and use of campaign funds more than to their amount.

"Corrupt money," said Mr. Pollock, "can be expended honestly, or honest money can be expended corruptly. It is therefore quite as important to have campaign money properly expended as it is to have it properly secured."

Regulation of the sources and amounts of campaign contributions can probably be best accomplished, concludes the National League of Women Voters, through publicity provisions.

Take Their Politics Seriously.

This educational movement is an other evidence that women voters take their politics seriously. Heywood, Marlowe, Cervantes, Burton, Shakespeare, and several other authors and authorities have told the world ever since early in the nineteenth century that comparisons are odious, but the facts seem to call for the observation that women take their politics more seriously than do men. Whoever heard of an organization of men voters of appreciable size that undertook a study of corrupt practices legislation? And when?

As a matter of fact, if 10 masculine voters, selected at random, were asked what a corrupt practices law is, it is an odds-on gamble that a majority of them would admit ignorance or answer that it had to do with prohibition enforcement and that the replies of the majority would be more hazy than accurate. It is equally true that a similar group of women voters would produce one or two answers such as "I should be worried!" or "Who wants to know?" and that none of them would prove to be accurately informed. However, organized women voters are undeniably out in front with a practical program for informing themselves on a subject of major importance in modern politics.

Miss Rocca's outline of study is presented in a questions and answers form that conveys the necessary information clearly and briefly. In its broadest sense, she says, the term corrupt practices legislation refers to all of the laws which attempt to insure the purity of elections. In particular, it means the laws regulating or limiting campaign expenditures and contributions, including what are known as publicity provisions which require that statements of campaign receipts and disbursements be made and held of record for public inspection. The first law of the kind was enacted in New York in 1890, but it applied only to the expenditures of candidates and did not cover those of campaign committees.

Similar laws, but broader in scope, were passed in three other states in 1891 and 1892 and within less than a decade 17 states had enacted legislation in some way regulating the use of money in elections. It was not until 1906, however, following the formation of the New York Publicity Law

Organization and the National Publicity Law Organization, says Miss Rocca, that the movement for comprehensive regulation of expenditures in both state and national campaigns gained real momentum.

Laws in All But Four States. At the present time only Illinois, Mississippi, Rhode Island and Tennessee have no laws regulating campaign expenditures, and it is to be noted that the more recent future over the use of money in politics was occasioned in part by such-fund revelations in connection with the Republican senatorial primary in Illinois. The winner of that primary, Frank L. Smith, who later carried the election, has not yet been seated by the United States Senate.

Of the forty-four states that have corrupt practices laws, those of Arkansas, Florida, Idaho, South Carolina, Texas, Vermont, Virginia, and Washington apply only to nominations. Most of the states require the filing of a detailed statement of receipts and expenditure applying usually to primary and election campaigns, to the candidate, to his personal committee, and to the party committee. Two-thirds of the states limit the amount of money that may be spent by or on behalf of a candidate. Corrupt practices laws have to do chiefly with expenditures, and except for provisions as to publicity, say very little about contributions. Most of the states, however, forbid contributions by corporations.

In all, Congress has passed seven laws relating to corrupt practices, the first in 1907 and the others in four successive years beginning with 1909, in

Gentlemen:

It is my custom to call on each participant in our Schools. The object is not an informal greeting, but is to gain valuable information which I might pass on to my audiences.

Among others visited in East Liverpool the Golden Star Dairy stands out very prominently. Personally I am deeply interested in the dairy business, being part owner of a dairy ranch in Idaho. My impression of the Golden Star Dairy is that it is most progressive, not only in ideas but also ideals of conducting the dairy business.

The buildings and machinery are of latest and most approved types, the pasteurizing is decidedly "up to the minute." Cleanliness is the prime virtue. I understand from authority that the farms from which Golden Star Milk is produced, are under constant supervision of an expert dairy-man with a microscope in hand. A very low bacterial count is maintained.

From the time Golden Star Milk leaves the producing farm until it reaches to consumer it is not touched by human hands. I consider it as much a duty as a pleasure to endorse Golden Star Milk.

GIRL FLYER PAYS VISIT TO PARIS SHOPS

French Capital Opens Arms to Miss Ruth Elder. BUYS NEW FROCKS Pretty Aviatrix Realizes Dream of Her Life.

PARIS, Oct. 29.—Realization of a dream she said she had all her life will occupy Ruth Elder's first waking hours here today. She will buy herself a few Paris frocks. After all Paris had responded gallantly to her charming personality and the daring American girl flier had been feted by American and French society and by France's Aero club, Ruth remembered that there was something very important she wanted to do. At her hotel late last night she said: "The first thing I am going to do tomorrow is to buy myself a couple of dresses. "All my life I have been dreaming of Paris and the beautiful things that gladden the heart of women that are made here. "I am staying a week instead of leaving on the Mauretania tomorrow as I had expected. I am going to buy the pretty things I have wanted all my life." Banquets and Receptions. When Ruth and George Haldeman swooped down upon Paris yesterday after a record trip from Bayonne, the welcoming committees were under the impression that their enjoyment of Ruth's presence would end short by her sudden departure. As a result the American girl was rushed through a program of banquets and receptions which were originally intended to take a week's time. Talking of her reception, Ruth said: "I love the French people. They are wonderful and their reception is more than I ever dreamed of. I am sorry that the flight ended where it did as I wanted to prove to the world that a woman could do—if not as good as Lindbergh, since none can do better—at least almost as good." After she buys herself some frocks and other things to replace the knickerbockers and sweater with which she has been clothed since she left America, Ruth today will visit the tomb of France's unknown soldier and will also pay a visit to Madame Tussaud, mother of the famous French pilot who disappeared while attempting a flight of the United States from Paris.

Girl Leaps To Death From New York Hotel

Pretty Massachusetts Miss Leaves Note for "Darling Mother," Then Jumps From Eighth Story Window.

By James L. Kilgallen. NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Another tragedy of Broadway, the street of bright lights and broken hearts, was enacted today when a beautiful, dark haired girl of twenty-two, a model, wrote a pathetic note to "darling mother" and then jumped from the eighth floor of the Knickerbocker hotel. She was instantly killed. Her body, clad only in a silk stepin and a brassiere, was found on the roof of a one-story extension in the rear of the hotel. She had registered last night as "M. E. Green, Passaic, N. J." but she is Mildred Nash, of Milford, Mass. "Darling mother: Please forgive me," said a note found on her dresser. You know I do not love buddies, and the New York life is driving me mad." The girl's note to her mother also said: "Please do me a favor and have Mac call William King in West 70 street, New York City. If Mac cannot then get Dr. or Dr. (neither name could be deciphered) on the telephone. "Joe is a bootlegger and they know him here. "Mother please forgive me but also please forgive Bill King." The note was unsigned. Detectives also found in the room a partly empty whiskey bottle. King was located in an apartment in West 70th street. He implored that his name be not mentioned in connection with the tragedy. "I wouldn't say a thing against the girl's character," he said. "I know her by another name. Green is not her name." Later the maid at King's apartment said he had left on a hunting trip. The girl had dark bobbed hair and dark eyes. She registered at the hotel about 8 o'clock last night. She went to her home, No. 810, at once and nothing more was heard from her by the management until this morning when she called the hotel telephone operator and said: "I'm going to commit suicide. Good bye." A house detective and a clerk immediately rushed to the room but while they were on the way up other guests heard the crash of the girl's body on the roof below.

CIRCUS PERFORMER SEEKS DIVORCE

TOLEDO, O., Oct. 29.—The famous bareback riding team of McCree and McCree, once the pride of lithographs, billposters and circus advance men, is on the shoals here today, following the recording of a divorce suit late Friday, against Mrs. Hettie McCree by her husband and former riding mate, at Reno. Mrs. McCree recently obtained a $100,000 judgment against a railroad company, after she was permanently injured in a railroad accident at Ivanhoe, Ind. Her husband was also injured in the crash but recovered and returned to the sawdust ring. Remus' Lawyer (Continued from Page One) further evidence of a plot against Remus' life by his wife and Franklin L. Dodge, her alleged lover. Albert S. Ward, United States Attorney, members of his staff, and agents of the department of justice kept over Remus in December, 1925, while he was testifying against 25 former associates in the Jack Daniel's distillery cases, because of gunmen seen shadowing him during the trial. Remus claims these men were offered $15,000 to kill him by his wife and Dodge. Elston denied the statement of Charles Taft, Hamilton prosecutor, that Remus killed Mrs. Remus to hide the murder on August 29, 1923, of Sheriff William Van Camp of Brookfield. Eugene Webb and Burt Carter, serving terms in the Ohio penitentiary for bank robbery, will be put on trial in circuit court during November for the murder. Taft, however, claims Remus made a detailed confession of the Van Camp slaying to a state's witness whose name he refused to divulge, and that he killed his wife when she threatened to tell the story to police. The deposition party, which during the last eleven days has visited Atlanta, Philadelphia, New York, Detroit, Lansing, Chicago and Indianapolis, will end its tour for the present when it leaves Indianapolis today.

NAB SUSPECT IN BANK ROBBERY

Toledo Man Taken as Brother Awaits Sentence. BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 29.—Arthur J. Hand, Toledo, is under arrest here today charged with complicity in the robbery of the Commercial Savings bank at Galion, while his brother Wilbur, awaits sentence on a similar charge. Arthur Hand was arrested here last night as he sat in the office of Attorney O. W. Kennedy, awaiting the verdict of a jury which had heard the trial of Wilbur. Arthur Hand was immediately taken before Mayor H. H. Hartman at Galion, where he pleaded not guilty when arraigned, and was held under $50,000 bond. While Arthur Hand was pleading the jury here returned a verdict of guilty, after Wilbur's three-day trial. Arthur Hand's arrest is the third growing out of the $175,000 robbery, participated in by five robbers last June. The third man is Harry Zillick, Toledo, indicted and held in the jail here awaiting trial. Zillick was one of Wilbur Hand's chief alibi witnesses during the trial. The arrest of Arthur Hand followed his identification by several state's witnesses during the trial of his brother. During the hearing, Arthur sat in the front seats of the court room, and was pointed to by several witnesses who charged he was one of the five robbers. It is expected that sentence will be passed on Wilbur Hand early next week.

TROOPS MAY BE ORDERED OUT IN COLORADO

Disorders Feared in Coal Mining Districts of State. OFFER REFUSED Industries Forced to Close for Lack of Fuel.

By Michael F. Dacey. (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent.) DENVER, Oct. 29.—With a mobilization order for National guard troops before him, Governor William H. Adams today declared he will not sign the instrument dispatching more than 1,000 armed militiamen into the southern Colorado coal fields unless county authorities in that district call upon the state for aid in maintaining order. Three Curtis bombing planes of the guard are already flying over the strike-infested area, and officers and enlisted men have completed all arrangements for immediate mobilization. Declaring that illegal picketing in the Walsenburg and Trinidad districts have resulted in virtual paralysis of the mine industry, coal operators, railroad heads and business leaders have urged the governor to send troops into the district because, they declared, the existing acute shortage threatened to raise havoc with all industries in Colorado. Already more than 1,000 men have been thrown out of work at the Pueblo steel plant of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company as the result of curtailed receipts of coal shipments. Continued warm weather has prevented any suffering, although there is only a small supply of coal on hand in Denver for domestic purposes. A ray of hope for settlement of the strike, called on Oct. 18, by leaders of the Industrial Workers of the World, was seen today in the award of the state industrial commission of an increase of fifty cents per day—to $6.77—in the basic wages of miners in the southern field. At a mass meeting of striking miners in the southern field a demand was made last night for establishment of the Jacksonville scale of $7.75 per day. The basic wage in Walsenburg county is $5.20. Original demands of I. W. W. leaders included a five day week of six hours daily. The strike has resulted in the idleness of approximately 9,000 miners of a total of 12,000 employed during peak production periods. Violence and disorder have marked the activities of picketers in the southern field, where armed mine guards have clashed with mobs, frequently led by women. Although no gunfire has occurred, several, including Milka Sablich, 19-year-old "girl in red," sustained serious injuries, and more than 100 persons have been arrested for picketing, which is a violation of the Colorado laws. It is estimated that 5,000 miners are on strike in the southern field; 2,500 in the northern field in Boulder and Weld counties, and 1,500 scattered over Fremont and Rout counties. The only disorders have occurred in the southern field where the Colorado Fuel and Iron company is the largest operator. Reports today from Walsenburg declare that 2,500 striking miners, including the "automobile pilgrims" of 500 from the northern field, are concentrating in that city prepared to stage further demonstrations. A mob of 250 were repulsed by mine guards in an attempted attack on the Ideal mine, near Walsenburg, late yesterday. Officials of the United Mine Workers of America have refused to recognize the strike, called by I. W. W. leaders without legal notice to the state industrial commission. The miners regular organization has had little influence in the Colorado fields since the famous Ludlow massacre, when troops used machine gun fire on the strikers tent colony, resulting in scores of deaths.

RESCUED BY HUMAN CHAIN

Detroit Woman Has Close Call at Niagara Falls. NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., Oct. 29.—Snatched from the treacherous currents of the Niagara falls by the aid of a human chain consisting of a man and two women, Mrs. Blanche Race, 57, Detroit, was recovering from her terrifying experience today. She was rescued close to the brink of the falls. Highly nervous and suffering from the cold waters, Mrs. Race was unable to account for her accident today. "I must have fainted," she said. Her rescuers, Dan Vandergriff, of Peoria, Ill., his wife and sister-in-law, Mrs. W. J. Taylor, of Cleveland, Alpturists, said today they were attracted to the woman's predicament by her screams. The tourists were viewing the illuminated falls near Prospect island. Attracted by Mrs. Race's cries, Vandergriff and the two women waded out into the water. Vandergriff at the lead and the others following, all holding hands. Vandergriff was in deep water when he had reached a point sufficiently off from shore to grab Mrs. Race as she floated abreast of him. Mrs. Frank Warhus of Buffalo, whom Mrs. Race had been visiting, revealed after the rescue that she had received a telegram during the day saying, "your aunt Mrs. Blanche Race drowned in river near goat island bridge today." W. J. Race, of Detroit, the rescued woman's son, was notified.

CLOSE RETREAT HERE SUNDAY

Papal Blessing to be Given in St. Aloysius Church.

Forty Hours' Devotion and retreat for Catholics and non-Catholics will close at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the St. Aloysius church, West Fifth street when the Papal blessing will be given by Father Sullivan, of Columbus, who has been in charge of the services. Large crowds attended last night when the priest spoke on the "Holy Eucharist." He used as his text, "Unless man eats My body and drinks My blood He shall not live." His talk was a clear exposition of the attitude of the church on the sacrament. He spoke on the three theological virtues, faith, hope and charity, and the benefits to be obtained by their faithful practice. Confessions will be heard this afternoon and evening. Holy Hour will be observed from 7:30 to 8:30. Masses tomorrow morning will be at the usual hours, 7:30, 8:30, 9:30 and 11 o'clock.

ITALIAN LINER IS RESCUED

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—With one propeller gone the Italian liner Labor from Genoa was reported by wireless early today drifting helpless in a heavy fog off the lower end of Cape Cod. Her calls for aid brought a coast-guard cutter to her side 115 miles south of the Nantucket light ship. The Labor carried a crew of 30 men and was in danger of running onto the treacherous shoals of the cape. She will probably be towed into port by the coastguardsmen.

Sally's Shoulders

by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "MONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

Chapter XLV.

Long after the chugging sound of Ted's little roadster had died away in the distance, Sally stayed where she was, in the night-time stillness of Aunt Emily's garden.

Ted had left her with a promise to take her to "The Lark" on the next night to see the Spanish dancers who were drawing the crowds there.

But it was not of Ted she was thinking as she sat on the stone steps, with the dark, perfumed weight of the lilac branches above her and a white moon shining down through the lace-work of leaves.

It was the kind of May night when probably won't come to anything—but I'll try it, anyway!"

She spoke aloud to Aunt Emily, with a friendly hand on her shoulder. "Come on upstairs, Aunt Em. I've a grand idea, but I won't tell you about it just yet."

"I'm afraid of grand ideas," answered Aunt Em in the tones of Gloomy Gus. "My grandest idea was to open this restaurant and see what a flat failure I've made of it."

She switched on the hall light and started up the stairs.

Sally followed slowly, looking over her shoulder at her reflection in the big mirror on the east wall of the hall.

if I was home—and he didn't want to Davy Davidson, and so lately he's been pretending that he's lost all interest in me. Davy came up to the office to take me out once or twice. . . . I told him not to, but he came anyway. And Johnny's been going around like a bear with a sore head ever since.

Her smiles deepened. Sally could see that she was proud of the fact that two men were in love with her—and that one of them was wildly jealous of the other.

"I see," said Sally, painfully. "You mean that he didn't really come here to see me today. You mean that he didn't want me to come back to work for him at all. That he just made that an excuse for coming to see you. . . . Is that it?"

Millie nodded her shining head. "Sure pop," she replied, musically. "He knows you're tied up here for keeps. He doesn't want you to work for him. He's got me and Miss Kress. How could he keep a third girl busy? Figure it out for yourself."

Sally did. She figured it out, lying alone in the darkness of her own room, and hour later. It took her all that time to make up her mind that Millie was right—and that John Nye had really come there that day to see her.

"But I wish he hadn't pretended that it was me that he wanted to talk to," thought Sally with bitterness in her heart. "I'd have liked him better if he'd come straight out and said he wanted to see Millie, instead of pretending that he had a job for me. He's always seemed to be so honest."

She thought of him—of the way he looked with his straight lips, his deep, direct eyes, and his quick, frank way of saying what he meant. It was hard to think of John Nye as being anything but honest.

On the next night, which was Monday, Sally went with Ted Sloan to see the tango dancers at "The Lark." And, just as Ted had said, they weren't so wonderful.

On Tuesday morning Sally drove to town in Aunt Emily's little car and returned at noon with several small packages that she carried straight to her own room.

On Tuesday afternoon at dusk Mrs. Jerome opened the door of it and came in. "I wonder if you would make me a cup of coffee, Sally," she began, and then stopped talking and made a queer little clucking sound in her throat.

Sally was sitting on the edge of the bed, winding a long yellow satin ribbon around one of her slender legs. And upon the ribbon dozens and dozens of tiny gilt bells were sewed. They tinkled merrily as the ribbon moved under Sally's slender little fingers.

"Whatever tomfoolery are you up to now?" asked Mrs. Jerome, mystified.

Sally gave a wild giggle. "I'm about to become 'Bella,' the bells of the ball-room dancers," she said, looking up at her mother from under her thick upcurling lashes. Her face was adorable with mischief and laughter.

A light slowly dawned in Mrs. Jerome's heavy, pale face.

"You're never going to dance for those hoodlums that come here to eat?" she gasped, plainly horrified.

"Hoodlums?" asked Sally. "I want you to know that our guests are not hoodlums. Mother, Aunt Em and I haven't had a crowd yet, but the people that we HAVE had have been the very nicest kind of people. . . . Now we're out for the crowds! The more the merrier!"

"I asked you if you were going to dance downstairs for those people!" repeated Mrs. Jerome with a terrible look.

Sally nodded, tossing her hair back from a satin forehead. "I certainly am!" she said. "And so's Ted Sloan! We're going to do it every night for a while, and see what happens!"

"You're no daughter of mine!" her mother said, after a long and awful pause. "You're just like your father, and your Aunt Em. Wild as a goat!"

Her face crumpled up as if she were going to cry. But Sally stole her heart against that pathetic look. . . . She was going through with this thing! She hated it, but she was going to go through with it! Right to the end, whatever that end might be. It was the only thing to be done, and she was going to do it, by Jimmy Jinks! (To be continued.)

Quality Leadership the Backbone of its Supremacy

Hudson design attains its great margins of supremacy in performance and reliability, only because it is accompanied by an equally pre-eminent leadership of quality in materials and workmanship. The great suppliers will tell you that its material standards are more exacting than many of the costliest cars. Its precision manufacture is carried to limits as fine as automobile practice has ever achieved. And its standards are guarded by inspection as careful, and watchful, as these rigid principles of quality themselves.

High Compression Performance that thrills the most Veteran Experts

By the Automobile Expert of "Automobile Topics"

"It has . . . all the 'punch' in the world . . . a smart push in the back every time the accelerator pedal is trod upon. Throughout its whole range, the response to throttle seems to be precisely the same. 'Soft spots' are simply not to be found.

" . . . it will walk away from the traffic signal faster than anything Hudson has ever built . . . It will step out of line and jump into the lead from any speed without the slightest hesitation.

"But further, all this is accomplished without a vestige of that tinkle-tinkle business under the hood that Englishmen know as 'pinking' and American engineers as the gas knock, or detonation. Apparently this present Hudson engine just isn't going to 'ping' when the throttle is quickly opened, or when the car is driven hard against a hill.

"Under precisely similar conditions most any modern engine will detonate when running on ordinary fuel . . .

"The Hudson motor does what it does on any old fuel at all, it is said, and assuredly does it on the run of the pump fuel that is sold at base prices everywhere."

I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they have rejected the law of Jehovah, and have not kept his statutes, and their lies have caused them to err, after which their fathers did walk.

5 But I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

6 Thus saith Jehovah: For three transgressions of Israel, yea, for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they have sold the righteous for silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes—

7 They that pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor, and turn aside the way of the meek; and a man and his father go unto the same maiden to profane my holy name:

8 And they lay themselves down beside every altar upon clothes taken in pledge; and in the house of their God they drink the wine of such as have been fined.

9 Yet destroyed I the Amorite before them, whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks; yet I destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath.

10 Also I brought you up out of the land of Egypt, and led you forty years in the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorites.

11 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for Nazirites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith Jehovah.

12 But ye gave the Nazirites wine to drink, and commanded the prophets, saying, Prophesy not.

Cleo's Airplane Girls Top Bill at Ceramic

Richard Dix's "Shanghai Bound," Story of Buccaneer Days, is Screen Feature.

Cleo and Her Airplane Girls, a high class singing and dancing act, will be the vaudeville feature in conjunction with the Richard Dix picture, "Shanghai Bound," at the Ceramic theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Have you ever read about the hair-raising exploits of Captain Kidd, Long John Silver and all the other pirates and buccaners in story books?

Piracy as colorful is flourishing today, just as it did in the days of the Spanish Main.

It furnishes the basic theme of Dix's new Paramount picture.

Chinese river pirates are attacking ships today as they have for centuries. The only difference is that they have improved their methods. Organized bands of marine marauders operate up and down the Yangtze river from Shanghai, stripping luckless vessels of their cargo. They even attack ocean-going steamers.

Authority for these statements is Edward S. (Tex) O'Reilly, former member of the International Police Force at Shanghai and later drill-master for the Chinese Imperial Army. Observations along the Yangtze river over a period of three years were set down recently by O'Reilly and offered to Paramount. His story "Shanghai Bound" was snapped up at once as a Richard Dix starring vehicle. It has proved ideal material, according to critics.

Dix plays a captain of a Yangtze river steamer in the picture, and his efforts to take a cargo of American refugees down the river Shanghai and safety form the skeleton of the plot. River pirates, spurred on by hunger, greed and revenge, are the obstacles in his path, and he overcomes them only after hard fighting all the way down.

Mary Brian is the American girl Dix saves. Jocelyn Lee, Charles Byer, George Irving, Arthur Hoyt, Tom Maguire, Frank Chew and Tetsu Komai appear in other important roles. More than 150 Chinese appear in the fight scenes. Luther Reed directed.

Sat in a Draft—Then Suffered.
It's never safe to sit where a draft of air strikes the kidneys. Painful congestion, severe backache, and a disturbed urinal flow are usual results. Mrs. C. L. B. Petersburg, Va., says, "I was so stiff and sore I could not stoop over nor rise up without great pain. Now, since taking FOLEY'S PILLS diuretic, I have none." A reliable valuable medicine, constantly in use over twenty-five years. Take them whenever irritations of the kidneys and bladder, and an irregular urinal flow cause distress and discomfort. Satisfaction guaranteed. Carman's 3 Drug Stores.

"IS ZAT SO?" AT THE STRAND

George O'Brien Stars in Screen Version of Stage Hit.

"Just plain dumb," describes the characterization of George O'Brien, Fox Films star, in "Is Zat So?" He is cast as Eddie (Chick) Cowan, a New York boxer under management of "Hap" Hurley, as portrayed by Edmund Lowe. Pacific Coast sport writers were a unit in describing O'Brien as the most realistic prize fighter in the motion picture industry. Yet the fighter isn't so dull, after all. In the end he wins a lovely girl and the championship of the world.

"Is Zat So?" is Fox Films version of the great Broadway stage hit of the same name and is scheduled for a two-day showing at the Strand theatre commencing Monday. In addition to O'Brien and Lowe, the cast includes such outstanding screen favorites as Kathryn Perry, Cyril Chadwick, Doris Lloyd, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Philippe De Lacy and Dione Ellis. The production was directed by Alfred Green, from the scenario by Philip Klein.

Hasman's Letter

1918 and in 1925. Three of them are classed as the most important.

The act of 1910 provided for the first time for the publicity of contributions made for the purpose of influencing the election of members of the House of Representatives. The one adopted the following year made the 1910 law apply to the nomination and election of both Senators and Representatives. The act of 1925 changed the provisions of former Federal laws in several respects, the most important being that the new law applies only to general elections and the field of regulation of primary campaign funds is left entirely to the States.

This last Federal law is attacked because it does not apply to primaries and conventions as well as to elections. "There is little question," says the National League of Women Voters, "but that there is great need for an improved Federal law and that such a law will not be of great value unless it is accompanied by complementary state legislation properly enforced."

For their study of the legislation of their several States, the women are given a list of questions covering the application of the legislation, its requirements as to filing statements of campaign receipts and expenditures or limiting expenditures or contributions, and the like, and then they are asked to form conclusions as to whether the legislation is adequate and properly enforced, and as to what should be done along remedial lines.

How the Other Half Behaves

Gems Gather Dust.
WORCESTER, Mass. - When a goodly housewife of this town, Mrs. Emma Monbard, found a jeweled band on the street she carried it home and tossed it on a shelf thinking it a cheap trinket. It remained there collecting dust until a friend who knew jewel values saw it. Mrs. Monbard found its owner, Mrs. M. H. Lamprecht of Cleveland.

Hold 'Em, Sheriff!
CHICAGO, Ill. - Angered because Judge Peter Schwaba inferred that he had arrested a speeder without sufficient evidence, Deputy Sheriff Joseph White tore his star from his coat and hurled it on the bench. It bounced, hitting the judge on the head. "I'm going to show you that no matter how tough you are or who you are you must respect this court," the judge retorted as he cited White for contempt of court and set his bond at $1,000.

The X-ray is now employed to find hidden cracks in the wood of airplanes, to locate holes in Swiss cheese and to assist prohibition agents by detecting contraband liquor secreted in packages of merchandise.

W. M. FERGUSON FUNERAL RITES

Services Conducted for Victim of Weirton
Pike Auto Crash.

Funeral services for William M. Ferguson, 69 years old, who died in his home on Weirton Heights, as a result of injuries sustained when struck by an automobile driven by Lewis Harris, of Weirton, on the Weirton pike, were held this afternoon in the home, in charge of Rev. D. C. Morton, pastor of the Holyday's Cove Presbyterian church. Burial was made in Chestnut Ridge cemetery.

An investigation of the accident by the authorities revealed it accidental and the driver was absolved of all blame, it being learned that at the section of the road where Ferguson was struck was very narrow, that Harris was driving his machine in low gear and that upon hearing the horn of the machine Ferguson is alleged to have become excited and stepped in its path.

Mr. Ferguson was born April 12, 1858, in Florence, Pa., and except for a few years spent in Ellwood City, Pa., spent the remainder of his life in Hancock county. He was a teamster by occupation and a member of the Presbyterian church.

Besides his wife, Mrs. Margaret Anderson Ferguson, he is survived by two sons and four daughters, namely: Walter, of Struthers, Ohio; Oddie, of Santa Anna, California; Mrs. Della Mae Cole, Elwood City, Pa.; Mrs. Hazel Robertson, Weirton; Mrs. Elizabeth McCurdy, Elwood City, Pa.; and Miss Emma Ferguson, of Elwood City.

Ceramic City Invited Into Allegheny County Cage League

PENNSYLVANIA LOOP TO BE RE-ORGANIZED

Weaker Teams Dropped in Plans for 1927-28 Campaign; Five Strong Quints Lined up for Competition.

East Liverpool today was offered a berth in the new Allegheny county amateur basketball league being formed under the direction of Johnny Freund, Pittsburgh basketball expert.

In a letter received by Bill Powell, former Central League star, and one of the game's centers in his day, Freund announces that a Ceramic City entry will be welcomed with open arms.

Freund, as well as various players of the Allegheny county circuit, probably recalls the performance of the East Liverpool Elks' club against the Duquesne Lafayettes, the league champions, and the Enoch Rauchs, the runners-up.

The Elks, in past season scrimmages, lost a pair of cage scuffles to the Lafayettes, both by comparatively close scores, and won one from the Rauchs, although on that occasion the Rauchs were playing Nate Lippe instead of with him.

According to Freund, the county league of last season has been weeded out, the weaker teams let go and nucleus of five strong clubs, comprising practically all of the outstanding performers of the 1926-27 circuit, retained.

If that is the case, only a first class amateur organization could hope to stay with the pace in a circuit of that nature. The Elks' team of last year could do it. If it were possible to round up the Lippe-Shupe-Paulsey-McConville-Anderson combination again, East Liverpool could demand

"WIZARD" ROCKNE STANDS ALONE

Other Old Men of the Gridiron Taste Defeat and Failure

NEW YORK, Oct. 26.—The football season half over, and only one of America's Grand Old Men of Football still riding high on the crest of current fame.

He is Knute K. Rockne, reverently referred to as the grand old wizard of Notre Dame.

This graybeard of the gridiron, young in years but a Solomon-like ancient in the wisdom of the booming business, has clung to his fame because he never has had to stage a come-back. He never went away.

Time was, when the teams of Fielding H. Yost, the Old Man of Michigan; Glenn "Pop" Warner, the Red Star of Carlisle; Hugo Bezdek, Grim Potentate of Penn State; Alonzo A. Stagg of Chicago; Gilmore Dobbie, the Gloomy One of Cornell, and Bill Roper, Mighty Piskin Prince of Princeton, had things all their own way.

Small schools, and many not so small, quailed and quaked, fled and fell before the awful brilliance of the Yostmen or a gang led by the great Stagg. The Old Men of the Gridiron had things their own way. Their boys won—and won again.

In Former Days.

For many more years than other Big Ten schools like to remember, the Michigan Wolverines were mighty under the touch of Yost and Stagg's Maroons dragged countless scalps back to Chicago to gloat over their fallen football inferiors.

Glenn Warner's system worked wonderfully at Carlisle where his Indians once dominated for years the national football scene. Then Glenn achieved great success at Pittsburgh and at Stanford.

Hugo Bezdek made the Nittany Lions of Penn State the most powerful team in the East. Gloomy Gil Dobbie had his great moments at Cornell while Bill Roper's Tigers of Princeton year after year successfully held up the honor of the now dissolved Big Three.

Meanwhile Knute Rockne of Notre Dame was frantically trying to keep up with the parade of the big pickin' machines—and succeeding. Year after year his Fighting Irish were famous.

Rockne Stands Alone.

Now, times have changed. Young men, stripping just out of college have taken charge of football teams and have walloped the newer machines of the Old Men until past football prowess is now forgotten.

And the Old Men? All but one has suffered keenly as a result.

Yost no longer leads Michigan. Stagg is trying a comeback of some sort. Warner already has tasted defeat this year. Roper's Princeton Tigers have seen better days. Dobbie might well be gloomy and Bezdek is just coming out of the woods after suffering bad seasons.

Knute Rockne alone continues to successfully defy the younger coaches. He is the true grand master of the game. His teams seem to get better year after year instead of deteriorating.

Somewhere Rockne must have hidden a formula of football success, a true fountain of football youth which keeps his gridiron brains fresh and keen and just a bit ahead of the rest of the crowd.

Photographs Taken in Fog.

Photographs showing every detail of the landscape with complete clearness have been taken in an opaque fog, according to J. Baird, the young Scotch inventor of television. He recently exhibited before the British Association in London such photographs and a camera, equipped with his television ray. The special photographic plates are sensitized to the infra-rays of the spectrum-rays—which are invisible to the human eye—and by this means the camera can record pictures through the thickest cloud. Baird predicts that photography and observation in the next war will be carried out by an aeroplane far above the clouds and hidden from the sight or hearing of the earth below.

STEPCHILD OF BOXING TITLES

WHO and why is a light heavy?

The light-heavyweight class has never been taken seriously. The boys who battled in it were never given much thought until if they ever did, they graduated into the heavyweight class—and the big money.

Take Tommy Loughran. He was was never regarded as such a hot performer among pugilists, and here he is, a champion, if the New York commission has its way.

The light-heavyweight title originated when Jack Root, a pug of 25 years ago, found himself too light for the heavies and too big for the middle weights. So Lou Housman created the class of light-heavies and called Jack the champ.

A fellow named George Gardner came along and knocked him free from his trumped-up crown. Bob Fitzsimmons, then the ex-heavy king, whipped Gardner but did not hold the title long. Bob was dethroned when he fainted and fell out of his chair between rounds during a fight with Jack O'Brien of Philadelphia.

O'Brien thought the crown a joke and didn't pay any attention to it. It gradually dropped out of competition and there was no light-heavy champ until Dan Morgan said Battling Levinsky was it.

Gene Tunney took the revived title away from the Bat, dropped it to Harry Greb, and then won it back again. Gene got tired of being a light-heavy and gave up the crown when he outgrew it. Levinsky again claiming it.

The big Orchid Man of France, Georges Carpentier, took it way from Levinsky and lost it to the sensational Senegalese, Battling Siki, who lost it to Mike McTigue.

Paul Berlenbach was rude enough to take it away from the aging Mick. Jack Delaney then divested Paul of his honors and reigned until overpowered by an ambition to become a heavyweight.

Delaney resigned his title and boxing commissioners gave it again to McTigue, who has just lost it to Loughran. But the National Boxing Association ignored Loughran's victory over McTigue and has proclaimed Jimmy Slattery light-heavy champ. Take your pick.

Local Youth Directs O. S. U. "Score" Party

Gerald Boyd Relays Story of Ohio-Michigan Game.

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—Gerald F. Boyd, of East Liverpool, a student at Ohio State university, had charge of the electrical scoreboard party which was held at Ohio stadium during the football battle of Ohio State and Michigan at Ann Arbor, last Saturday.

The board, or the grid-graph as it is called by its inventor, Prof. Percival B. Potter, of the university, recorded the Buckeye-Wolverine contest play by play. A direct wire from the field flashed the latest plays to the operators who displayed them on the board to some 500 "home" rooters.

Boyd is the assistant secretary of the student senate which supervises the score board parties. The East Liverpool youth was appointed to have charge of the grid-graph by the student organization at a recent meeting.

THINKS STATE IS IMPROVING

Alumni of Ohio State University are protesting the showing that school's football team made against the University of Michigan on Oct. 22, in answer to criticism, Coach John W. Wilce, above, says he believes the team is on the upgrade and will get better and better. At a recent meeting at Columbus, O., Arthur W. Raymond, president of the Varsity "O" Alumni association, resigned after declaring there "was something wrong in the Ohio State athletic department."

100% Pure Pennsylvania Crude Will Pure Pennsylvania Oil Perform Well in Cold Weather?

Any oil is subject to more dilution in cold weather. The choke is used more frequently. More gasoline is drawn into the combustion chambers—more remains unburned to dilute the oil.

As for cold weather performance, a test conducted within the past two years best answers that question. This test was conducted in the laboratory of a large and well-known automobile factory.

Two cars were used. One crank case was filled with an extra medium grade of pure Pennsylvania oil. The other was filled with a medium grade of an oil made from an asphalt base crude.

Both cars were run into a large refrigerating room. Both motors stood idle all night—in a temperature below the cold test or congealing point of either oil.

In the morning, the switches were thrown. The starters were stepped on.

The asphalt base oil was so firmly set that the starter would not turn the engine over.

The Pennsylvania oil made a little fuss in starting—but after a few revolutions of the starter, sufficient speed was gained to let the motor start.

Not only better lubrication, but quicker starting at extreme low temperatures is possible by the use of pure Pennsylvania oil in winter.

And remember, once the motor warms up to efficient operating temperature, the oil must render practically the same service required in summer. That is another reason for choosing Pennsylvania as your winter motor oil.

"Ben-Hur", Capstone Of Pictures, Coming

Screen Spectacle of General Lew Wallace's Story, at American Theatre Next Week.

Tradition clusters around "Ben-Hur" as the most remarkable stage achievement of America. It is fitting that this well-grounded tradition is upheld by the picture spectacle, which opens a week's engagement Monday at the American theatre.

"Ben-Hur," first staged at the Broadway theatre, New York, November 29, 1899, effected epochal changes. Its new mark of magnificence excited national attention, whilst the nature of its action and the fineness of its handling called to the patronage of the better drama millions of persons whose training hitherto had been sharply opposed to the theatre.

Nearly half a million spectators saw it the first season.

For practically a quarter of a century "Ben-Hur" held dominance whenever presented, and the cause of its vogue are not hard to seek, for it was great drama and great spectacle. At the historical setting of the birth of Christianity in the eastern half of the Roman empire. The story is for people of all creeds and no creed; the spectacle of the chariot race and the many other tensely melodramatic scenes, stirred the pulses of the most indifferent. Throughout its stage career "Ben-Hur" was wisely maintained at the level of its original excellence, elaboration, and reverent spirit, and thus still enjoys a primacy in the affections of myriads of old adherents.

The Greater Ben-Hur exceeds the stage play, even as the newer art that has the whole world for its picturing, exceeds the older one.

Now twelve teams of four horses each race seven laps around a real arena of vast proportions, laid out within a reconstructed and practicable Circus Maximus worthy of Antioch!

A fleet of a hundred antique triremes goes into the historic Tyrrhenian sea for the battle between the pirates and the Romans.

For the first time one actually sees the son of Hur assemble the Galilean legions on the mission of establishing a king in Judea.

The cast includes: Ramon Novarro, Francis X. Bushman, May McAvoy, Claire McDowell, Kathleen Key, Carmel Myers, Nigel de Bruin, Mitchell Lewis, Leo White, Frank Currier, Charles Belcher, Betty Bronson, Dale Fuller, Winter Hall.

WASHINGTON STEWART'S LETTER

GREEN IS UNLIKE GOMPERS, YET CARRIES OUT POLICIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, re-elected a few days ago, is about as different from the late Samuel Gompers, his predecessor, as it is possible to imagine. And yet he seems to have been created for Gompers' old job just as especially as Gompers created it to suit himself in the first place.

It was a job which Gompers was a good fit for, of course, being the designer of it. How the master minds of the American Federation were able to tell, in advance, that Green could mold himself into it so accurately is something of a mystery.

THERE was no accident about it. Gompers died in office. It was the duty of the federation's little executive group in Washington to choose a successor for the balance of his term.

It behooved them to choose wisely, for it is not a post in which much changing is desirable.

The responsibility was heavy on the men charged with the selection and they made it prayerfully—literally.

THAT Gompers was not approximately duplicated isn't surprising, for another man of his type would have been hard to find, but Green is of almost an opposite type.

For all that, he fills the bill, apparently to perfection.

Gompers was the ideal of his work at the time he was doing it, and now that the task has changed quite radically, Green's another ideal, under the new conditions.

The men who picked him, picked him too deliberately not to be given credit for deciding on him as a feat of straight brain-work and good judgment, and it really was a remarkable performance—hitting it as exactly as they did, in spite of the radical departure they were making from their original model.

GOMPERS was a genius and Green is the embodiment of sound common sense.

Gompers was fiery and impatient. Green is cool, unhurried—but efficient—and substantial.

Gompers was the man to build the American Federation up, and he did build it up, and Green, it looks significant anything, is the man to hold it together.

Gompers was a great man—which is by no means to imply that Green isn't.

McKay, pastor. Sunday school 9:45 a. m. supt. Mrs. Joseph Wells. Morning worship 11 o'clock, subject, "The Bible the Greatest Book." Young People's meeting 6:30 p. m. Evening services 7:30 o'clock. Evangelistic services. Mid-week prayer service 7:30 p. m. Bible school lesson.

Only Gompers knew he was. He was entirely too great to put on any airs about it, but it was obvious that he had himself correctly estimated in his own mind.

Green's as unassuming as the "old shoe" they tell about.

GOMPERS was the character to start from "scratch" and wind up with an empire.

Green, as I size him, has the qualifications to take the empire in hand and administer it wisely and progressively.

William Green gives me the impression of a fine specimen of the best the common people have to offer. Green's a normal, natural president of the American Federation of Labor.
